Kindergarten Course Description

The Language Arts program defines what students should understand and be able to do by the end of each grade. The standards correspond to the College and Career Readiness anchor standards in Reading, Writing, Speaking and Listening, and Language. Together with the grade specific standards, this curriculum defines the skills and understandings that all students must demonstrate. Students will gain adequate exposure to a range of texts and tasks. The standards are directed toward fostering students' understanding and working knowledge of concepts of print, the alphabetic principle, and other basic conventions of the English writing system. Students will demonstrate increasing sophistication in all aspects of language use, from vocabulary to and syntax to the development and organization of ideas, and they should address increasingly demanding content and sources.

Inquiry and Application Standards

In response to higher standards and real-world demands, there exists a growing need across content areas and grade levels for students to become resourceful, effective investigators and problem-solvers. Inquiry-based teaching is a powerful vehicle through which such goals for learning are possible (Barron et al., 1998; Edelson, Gordin, & Pea, 1999; Lappan, 2000; Owens, Hester, & Teale, 2002; Perez, 2000).

Inquiry-based projects can build learning communities that foster communication skills, interpretive abilities and an understanding of issues from a variety of perspectives (Bruce, 2002; Owens, Hester, & Teale, 2002).

Inquiry-based teaching is an instructional approach in which students' own interests and curiosities drive the learning process and products. Students select topics to research; formulate questions; collect, cull and synthesize information; and, finally, create and present a product that has real-world application (such as models, interviews, experiments) from what they learned. Teachers serve as facilitators and resources (Owens et al., 2002)
